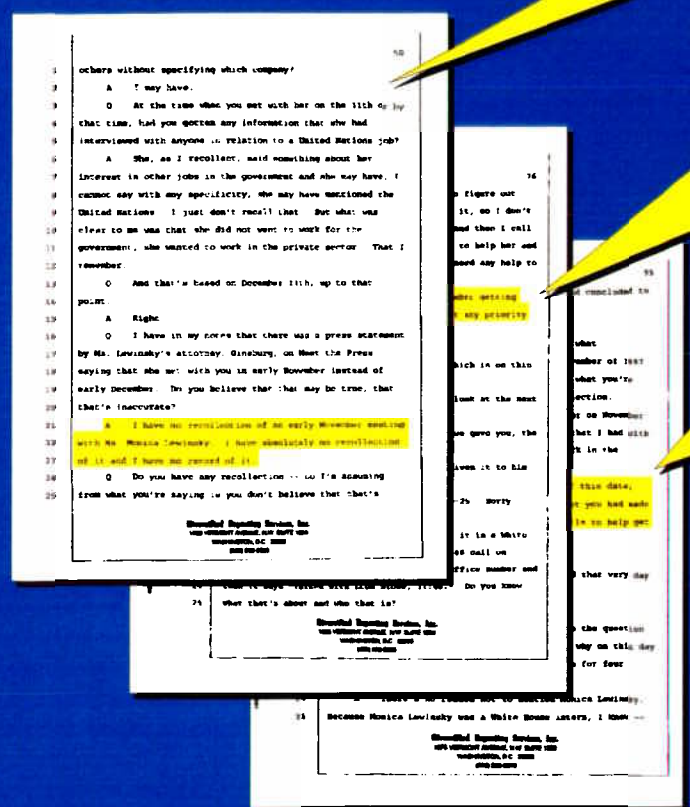
Vernon Jordan's Pre-Witness List
Job Search Efforts



Jordan Grand Jury March 3, 1998 Tr.50

A I have no recollection of an early November meeting with Ms. Monica Lewinsky. I have absolutely no recollection of it and I have no record of it.

Jordan Grand Jury May 5, 1998 Tr.76

Q Is it fair to say that back in November getting Monica Lewinsky a job on any fast pace was not any priority of yours?
A I think that's fair to say.

Jordan Grand Jury May 5, 1998 Tr.95

Q But what is also clear is that as of this date, December 11th, you are clear that at that point you had made a decision that you would try to make some calls to help get her a job.
A There is no question about that.

Lewinsky Grand Jury August 6, 1998 Tr.115-116

[Lewinsky] [Referring to 12/6/97 meeting with the President]. I think I said that . . . I was suppose to get in touch with Mr. Jordan the previous week and that things did not work out and that nothing had really happened yet [on the job front].
Q Did the President say what he was going to do?
A I think he said he would - you know, this was sort of typical of him, to sort of say, 'Oh I'll talk to him. I'll get on it'.

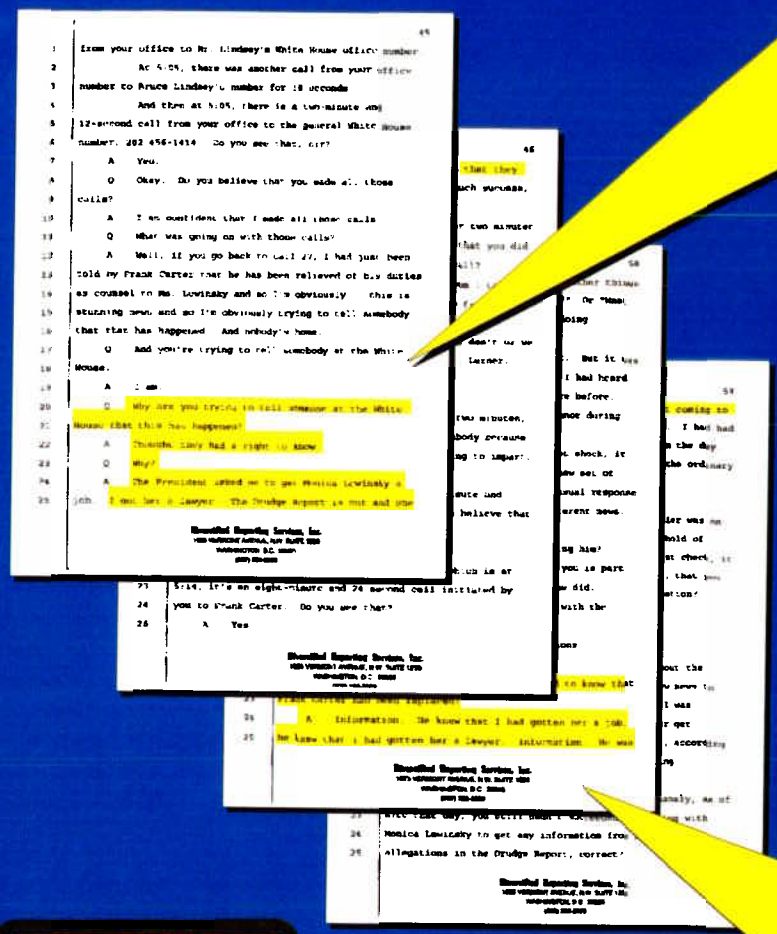
A . . . I am certain after the 11th that I had a conversation with the President and as a part of that conversation I said to him that Betty Currie had called me about Monica Lewinsky. And the conversation was that he knew about her situation, which was that she was pushed out of the White House, that she wanted to go to New York, and he thanked me for helping her.

The President's Involvement With Lewinsky Job Search



Jordan Grand Jury June 9, 1998 Tr.45-46

Q Why are you trying to tell someone at the White House that this has happened [Carter had been fired]?
A Thought they had a right to know.
Q Why?
A The President asked me to get Monica Lewinsky a job. I got her a lawyer. The Drudge Report is out and she has new counsel. I thought that was information that they ought to have . . .

Jordan Grand Jury June 9, 1998 Tr.58-59

Q Why did you think the President needed to know that Frank Carter had been replaced?
A Information. He knew that I had gotten her a job, he knew that I had gotten her a lawyer. Information. He was interested in this matter. He is the source of it coming to my attention in the first place.

Paula Jones case. Do you remember that meeting?

A I do remember the meeting.

Q And do you remember your testimony about that meeting?

A Yes.

Q Do you remember that you testified that the President made a series of statements to you which he prefaced with, "There are several things you may want to know"?

A I don't exactly remember that

Q Okay. What do you remember him saying before he launched into his series of statements about Monica Lewinsky?

A The best I remember is that he said they asked him a lot of questions about Monica.

Q And did he appear surprised at that?

A He did appear surprised

Q Did he tell you why he was telling you those statements?

A I don't remember him saying that, no

Q Okay. Specifically, the five statements that you previously testified about were as follows, and I just want to make sure that they're accurate to you.

The first was, "I was never alone with Monica Lewinsky, right?"

Q Okay. Did there come a time after that that you had another conversation with the President about some other news about what was going on? That would have been Tuesday or Wednesday -- when he called you into the Oval Office.

A It was Tuesday or Wednesday. I don't remember which one this was, either. But the best I remember, when he called me in the Oval Office, it was sort of a recapulation of what we had talked about on Sunday - you know, "I was never alone with her" -- that sort of thing.

Q Did he pretty much list the same --

A To my recollection, sir, yes.

Q And did he say it in sort of the same tone and demeanor that he used the first time he told you on Sunday?

A The best I remember, sir, yes.

And it was at that point that he gave his account of what had happened to me [sic] and he said that Monica - and it came very fast. He said, 'Monica Lewinsky came at me and made a sexual demand on me.' He rebuffed her. He said, 'I've gone down that road before, I've caused pain for a lot of people and I'm not going to do that again.'

She threatened him. She said that she would tell people they'd had an affair, that she was known as the stalker among her peers, and that she hated it and if she had an affair or said she had an affair then she wouldn't be the stalker any more.

I said, I have not had sex with her as I defined it. That was true. And did I hope that I would never have to be here on this day giving this testimony? Of course.

But I also didn't want to do anything to complicate this matter further. So I said things that were true. They may have been misleading, and if they were I have to take responsibility for it, and I'm sorry.

Seven Pillars of Obstruction

1. The President personally encouraged a witness, Monica Lewinsky, to provide false testimony.

2. The President had direct involvement in assuring a job for a witness, Monica Lewinsky, in a federal civil rights suit at the same time he personally encouraged the filing of a false affidavit by that witness.

3. The President personally, with corrupt intentions, tampered with the testimony of a prospective witness, Betty Currie.

4. The President personally provided false statements under oath before a federal grand jury.

5. By direct and circumstantial evidence the President personally directed the concealment of evidence under subpoena in a judicial proceeding.

6. The President personally allowed false representations to be made by his attorney, Robert Bennett, to a federal district judge on January 17, 1998.

7. The President intentionally provided false information to witnesses before a federal grand jury knowing that those statements would be repeated with the intent to obstruct the proceedings of the federal grand jury.
